The background of the slide features a grayscale image of a starry night sky. In the foreground, the silhouettes of two people are visible on a rocky mountain peak. One person is standing and leaning forward, while the other is sitting or kneeling, and they appear to be interacting or looking at something together. The overall mood is contemplative and inspiring.

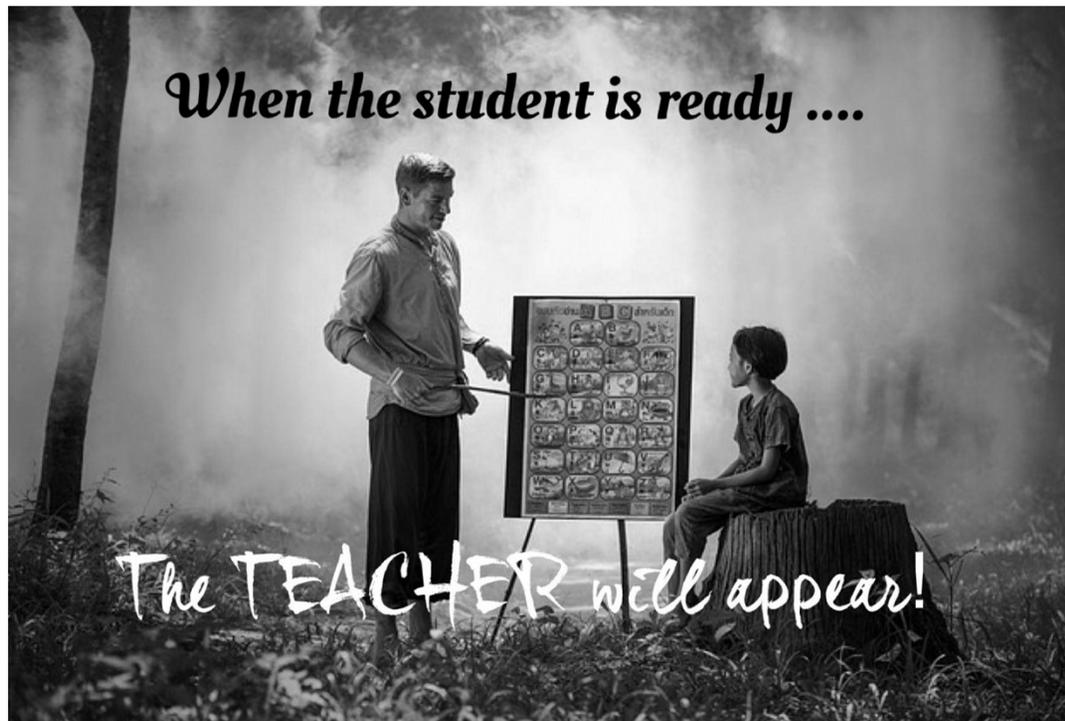

The Gift and Power of a Mentor

The Gift of a Mentor can help you lay the foundation of the future you want to create, and the Power of a Mentor saves you the 10-15 year learning curve. Kim Bassett

This is a book dedicated to 2 of my mentors. Dale Brent Stephens and Joel Bauer.

Thank you both for showing me what it means to be unstoppable!

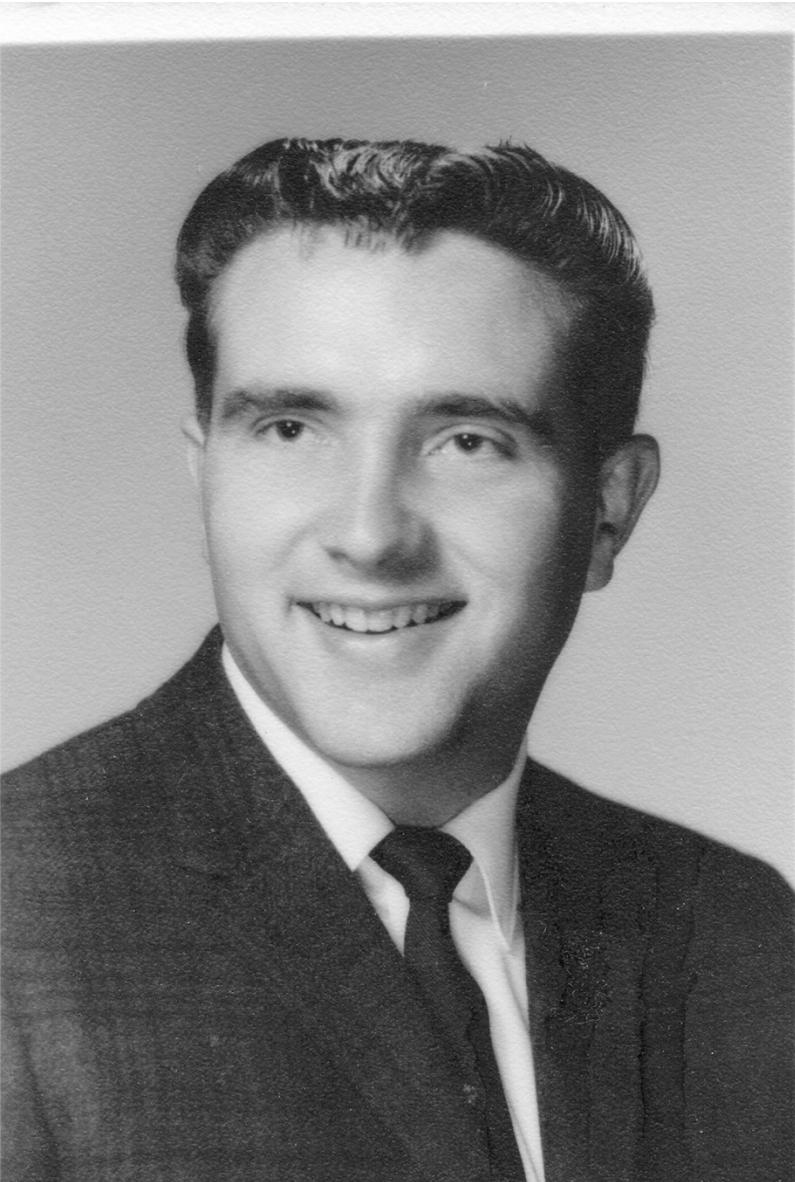

What is a Mentor

The dictionary definition of a Mentor is an experienced and trusted adviser.

My definition is someone who has done what you want to do and allows you to get there with the tools and systems that work for you.

Mentors come in all different shapes and sizes. Some show up for a moment, a season or a lifetime. The question is will you listen, and if you do, will you implement?

Dale Brent Stephens

March 26, 1939 – December 1, 2010

To my Father Dale Brent Stephens. You left me with many gifts but these 5 Gifts, I believe is what made me who I am today and gave me the strong foothold for my foundation.

5 Lessons Learned from my Father Dale Brent Stephens

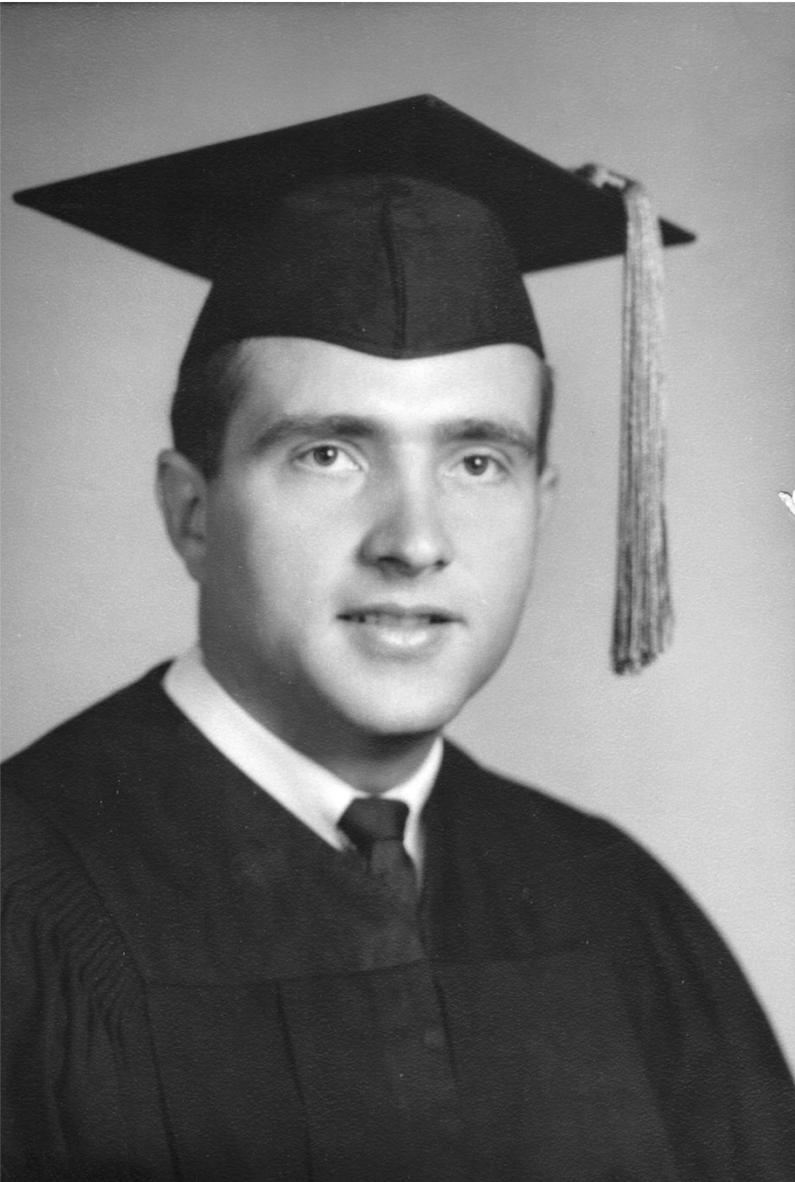

The Gift of Work Ethic

I began working alongside my father at the age of 5. I would hand him TV tubes while he fixed other peoples TV's, radios, anything electronic. Why, because he was a high school teacher, and he did things on the side because he loved to serve others and it provided more income for our family. His entrepreneurial spirit expanded to other businesses over the next 13 years and to his children.

It wasn't uncommon that we were with our father on many projects. From helping to build our home, working on cars, weeding almost an acre of garden, just to name a few. I watched him work 3 jobs, take care of 2.5 acres of beautiful yard and garden. Grade stacks of papers. I would help him with that too but don't tell his students

We were never allowed to quit even if a job took us the entire day. I left home with many impressive skills.

The Gift of Learning

My Dad had a masters degree in electronics and education. He was a mathematician. He was the one who brought computers into the school district before anyone knew that they existed. He continued to grow and learn new software and technologies over the years. He was a lifelong learner and so am I.

One of the biggest lessons was watching how he served others. His fulfillment came from watching his students. He was so proud to see them excel and go on to do great things in many companies that at the time were start ups and now billion-dollar companies.

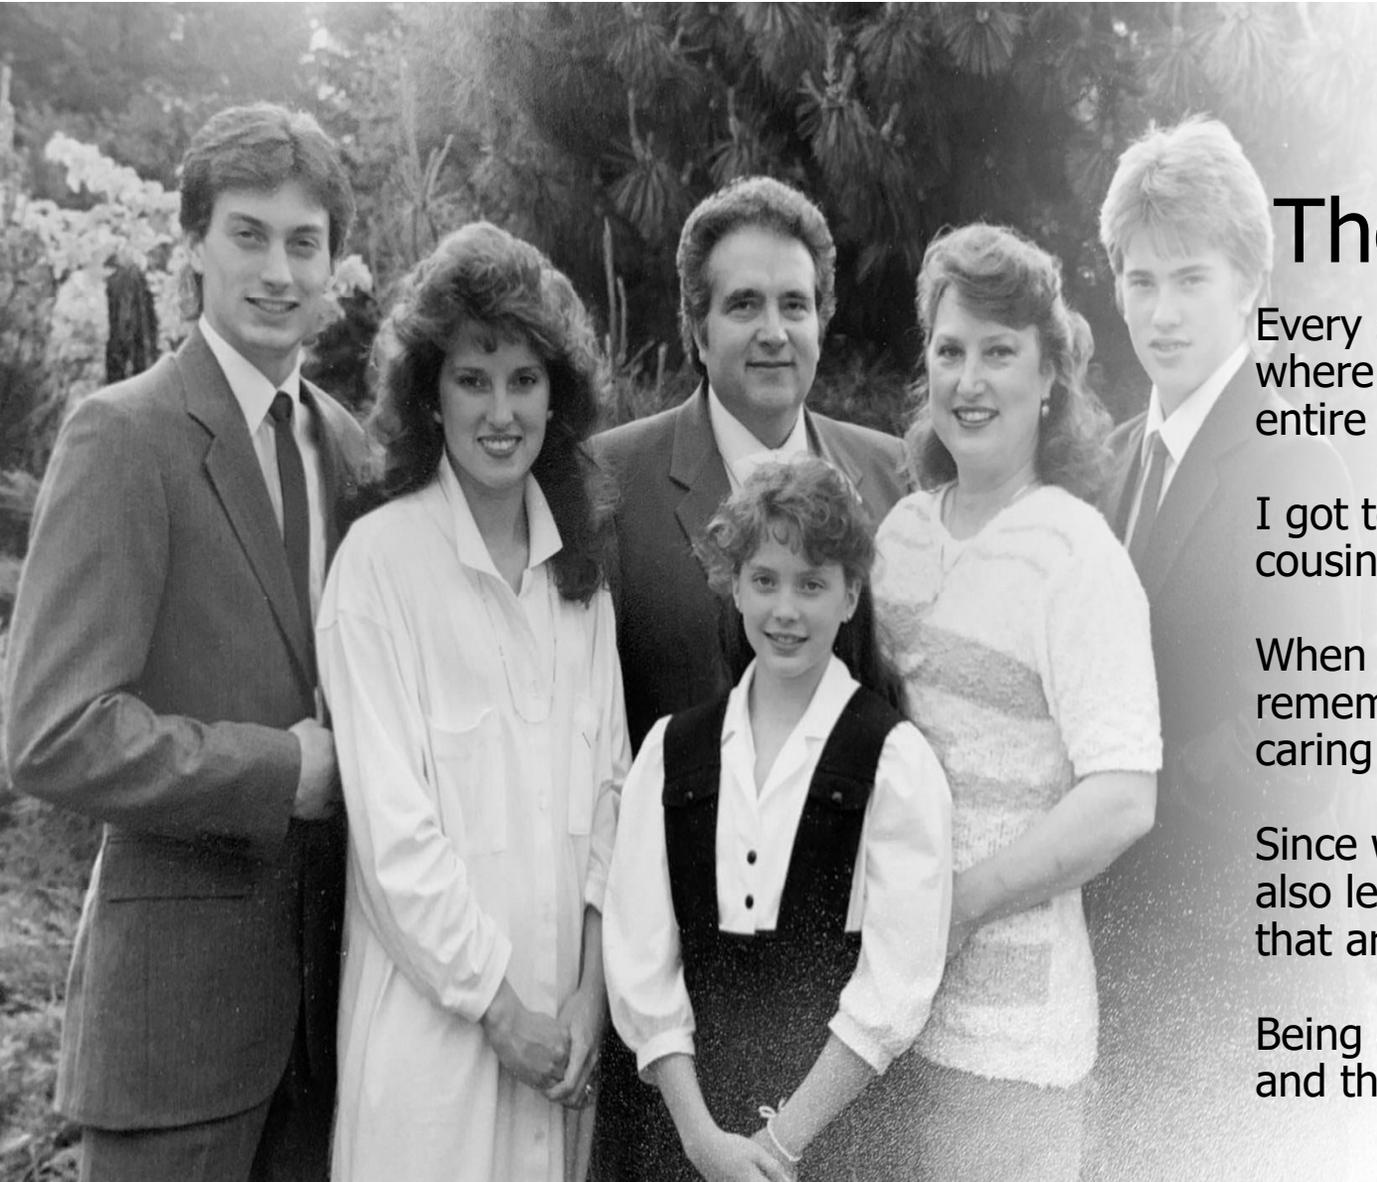

The Gift of Having Fun

When we were little, we would wrestle, laugh and play. Dad would bounce us on his knee like a horse. Then put us up in the air with his feet. I had forgotten how I would do the same thing with my kids till I saw my sons doing it with my grandchildren.

Working hard was just a fact of growing up but as much as we worked hard Dad knew how to play just as hard. Growing up in Washington State there are mountains, rivers and lakes. All summer when Dad wasn't working, we would waterski, fish and camp.

Theses are some of my favorite memories and they help remind me to play more.

The Gift of Family

Every summer we would go to Utah where my father grew up because his entire side of the family still lived there.

I got to experience aunts, uncles, cousins, Second cousins and more.

When I was sick it was dad who I remember taking me to the hospital and caring for me.

Since we didn't live close to family, I also learned the gift of choosing family that are friends

Being grateful for the ones you have and the ones you choose.

The Gift of being Unstoppable

My dad taught me to troubleshoot at a young age. I experienced that there is always a way to fix something or how to look at a problem in a different way. He never stopped till there was a solution. Whenever I wanted to quit, he was there to pick me up, brush me off, and say try again. I know this is where I got my unstoppable spirit.

To my father....

Dad,

Although you passed away earlier than I thought or would have liked, you got to see me do many of the things you did.

You saw me be one of the only women managers at Radio Shack on the west coast.

You saw me be an entrepreneur/business owner.

You saw me be a fulltime substitute teacher for 7 years. I still don't know you did it over 30 years.

The one wish I had was for you to see me start a business with Damon. He and I have talked about that from time to time. I choose to believe that you have been watching over us.

Thank you for always letting me know how proud you were of me and not just in business but who I am. I will continue to pass on to others these gifts and more just like you did. I still miss you everyday! I love you!

Joel Bauer The Mentor Mentors....My Mentor

5 of many lessons of empowerment

The power of seeing in others what they don't always see in themselves. Kim Bassett

The Power of Dreams

Dreams Come true if you have one. Joel Bauer

I met Joel in February of 2020. It was a time in my life that I was looking to create my dream. A program to empower people to get out of their way and stop living a life in survival, so they can believe that they have a voice and a message to be heard.

Little did I know that even though I worked the entire year with Joel, in several intense workshops. I discovered my true voice and purpose at his masterclass.

I know the power that dreams come true if you have one.

The Power of Language

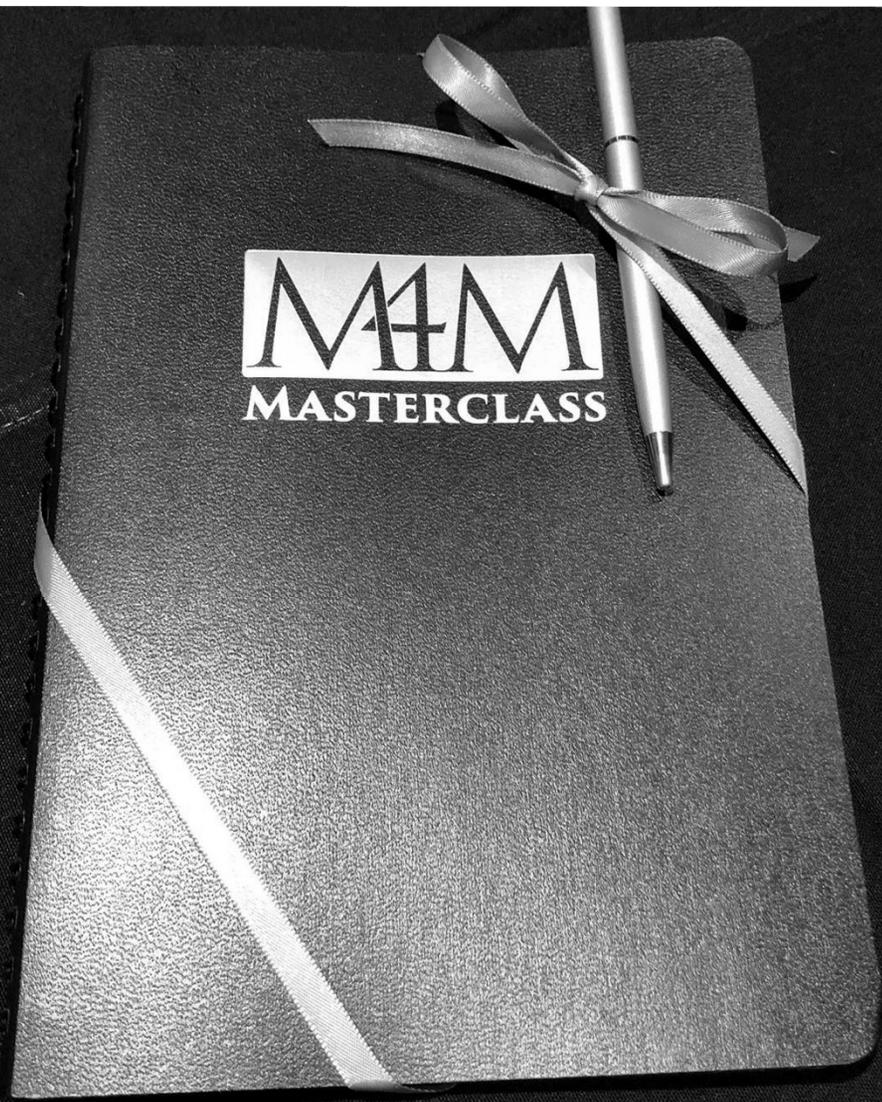

One of the things that drew me to Joel was his power of language.

I was a self-proclaimed perfectionist. I never really believed it, but I literally about killed myself to live up to it.

When I heard Joel say there is no perfection only progression. Inside I was like YESS!!! I'm a progressionist!

When he speaks it is with power, heart and intention. He has taught me how to use language to present and close.

Joel has powerful techniques that he models and wants his students to model to save them the 10-20 year learning curve.

The Power of Systems

For a long time, I have been that person who ran their life by the seat of her pants.

Having 6 children, businesses, teaching etc...For years my inner voice had been crying. "You need systems!!"

What I do, love and want will never be as good as it could or even fail without a system.

Joel learned from his mentor that failure is a result of not having a system.

Not only has it helped me, but I have passed it on to others.

As a result, I take daily steps toward building and refining systems thanks to my Mentor.

YOU DON'T NEED TO BE PERFECT.
YOU DON'T EVEN NEED TO BE GOOD.
YOU JUST NEED TO BE FUNCTIONAL.

Joel

The Power of 3

The number 3 has always been a favorite number of mine and when Joel presented it with words, I immediately knew the power that it holds.

The 3 words that Joel uses are Present, Persuade and Preserve. At first, I thought oh that's easy, probably because Joel makes it all seem easy. When I and others began to get hung up on which 3 words to use. He said "Just pick 3, you can always change it." "Just get functional!"

Everyone gets stuck and has things that hold them back. Joel's words of functional has allowed me to have 2 online shows and moving forward with my program. You know you have the right mentor when you can hear them in your head.

The Power of Being in the Moment for the Moment

One of Joel's favorite sayings is "In the moment for the moment." When you study with him you hear it all the time.

Recently I asked a community to tell me one piece of advice they would give their younger self. Joel responded with Be in the moment for the moment. I have pondered the impact of this statement over the past year.

Joel talks about his family all the time and how he spends time with them.

Recently I got to spend some time with my older children, I took this to heart and have made it a practice.

I know You will never regret being present with those you love.

To Joel.....

This is a picture taken after the 2-day weekend Mastery seminar in February of 2020.

In this moment my only wish was to attend master class and I didn't know how that could happen. Before attending I had 5 mentors trying to piece together what I needed.

Finding you this weekend, I left with hope and knowing that I had found the mentor with all the tools and techniques to move forward. Even if all I had was your program, I knew I could do it. I got so much more. You have the biggest heart, and you give and give.

Not only did I get a whole year with you, pouring your 40 years of sacrifice, sweat and experience into your students. This empowered us so that we wouldn't be shut down inside, while our world outside was shut down. I also attended master class.

I will take my 30 plus years left to continue to progress and transfer my life work and legacy to others.

I have all I need and more to implement. Including the clarity and courage to leverage and launch what I bring to the world.

My love and gratitude to you!

I'll honor you by showing it through my actions.