DID YOU REMEMBER GRANDMA FOR MOTHER'S DAY?

Forgetting "Grams", "Grammy", "Mimi", "Nana", "MawMaw", or Grandma for Mother's Day is like forgetting to water a plant.

Your "Grams" was the plant that 'sprouted' your mother, who 'sprouted' you.

She's part of the reason why you are here. Thus, including her in your Mother's Day celebrations is only right and kind, as well as a good thing to do.

OTHER REASONS TO INCLUDE GRAMS IN YOUR MOTHER'S DAY CELEBRATION

When you acknowledge your grandmother for Mother's Day, you do a lot:

1. You celebrate she is like your second mother.
Think of all those time she provided care, support and guidance for you. By giving her a gift on Mother's Day, you recognize and thank her for the important role she has played.
2. You acknowledge she is family.
This strengthens your family bonds.
3. You show gratitude to her demonstration of values and behaviors that have shaped your life.
She's been a role model for you and you have learned a lot from her!
4. You acknowledge the fun, happy memories you have had with her.
Think back to some of them — they may be too numerous to list!
5. You celebrate her wisdom.
The wealth of life experience and wisdom that Grams has passed down to her grandchildren is something that many forget about until Grams is gone from this life forever. Celebrating it WITH Grams is a lot better!

6. You show gratitude for her love for you.
Grammy has given you unwavering love and affection your entire life. When she knows you understand this, she may pour out even more of that love on you!
